MESSAGE FROM SHERIFF MILLHOLLAND

Thank you for taking the time to review our annual report. As you can see, the Frederick County Sheriff's Office performs many functions as a full-service Sheriff's Office.

With over 81,000 calls for service in 2018, OUR Deputies handle different types of calls for service. These calls could be Administrative related, Patrol, Traffic, Drug, Animal Control, School Resource Personnel, Civil and Courts just to name a few. As I stated, the Frederick County Sheriff's Office is a full-service Agency which means we handle all aspects of duties. We currently have 149 authorized, sworn positions. Recently, we were successful in having 9 more sworn personnel added to our School Resource Officer Program. This addition provides a Deputy for all High Schools, Junior High and Elementary Schools.

In 2018 we were proud to continue with "Tribute Tuesday" and the "Lunch Buddy" Program at Frederick County Public Schools. We also have continued to provide the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Awareness) for 5th Graders. If we can change the mindset of young people at an early age, we may be able to change their thinking in the future when it comes to Drugs and Alcohol.

Over the past 10 years, Law Enforcement has changed in so many ways. Every day, we look for ways to be more effective, efficient and transparent with the public. The Frederick County Sheriff's Office will always encourage our Citizens to be involved in the community. If you have concerns over safety and security, take a moment and give us a call at 540-662-6162. You can also check our website and our Facebook Page.

Thank you

Lenny Millholland

Sheriff of Frederick County, VA.

Lunch Buddy Program

The Sheriff's Office has again partnered with Bright Futures to participate in the Lunch Buddies program. The Sheriff's Office role is quite simple, however indescribably rewarding. We simply go to an elementary school once or twice a month and hang out or eat lunch with our young scholars. The objective is also a simple one; spend time with the children in our community and build positive relationships with them.

We look forward to giving back to our local law enforcement all year while at the same time building positive connections.

Schools Active Shooter Training

A group of Frederick County Sheriff's Office SWAT members take part in a training exercise at the former Frederick County Middle School building.

WINCHESTER — Officer Chris Hockman shouted out a series of commands in the hallway of the old Frederick County Middle School on Wednesday. “Communicate, communicate, communicate!”

“Keep your head on a swivel.” “Not everyone’s a threat! They might simply be a contact.”

Hockman, a school resource officer at Frederick County Public Schools, was teaching the Advanced Law Enforcement Rapid Response Training — or ALERRT — to 20 to 30 officers with the Frederick County Sheriff’s Office. The 10-hour training is held three to four times a year and has been practiced by local law enforcement for about a decade.

On Wednesday, media were invited to parts of the training, which included a four-man team exercise down one of the school’s hallways. During the movement, Hockman instructed the officers to remember to look at the hands of anyone coming down the hall to see if they have a weapon. He also advised them that they only had minutes and seconds to act during a school shooting, so they should not wait for others to show up. “Do not wait,” he said.

Sheriff Lenny Millholland said the February mass shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Fla., did not change the way county law enforcement handles school safety and training.

“We’ve always trained the way we’ve trained,” he said. “The faster we get here, identify the threat and take that threat out, that’s what we do.”

Currently, the school division participates in a Lunch Buddies program, where deputies have lunch with the students to build a positive relationship. Since 2017, the Sheriff’s Office has also taught school employees the Run, Hide, Fight technique to use during an active shooting.

“We’ve benefited greatly from the strong partnership with the Sheriff’s Office,” said David Sovine, superintendent for Frederick County Public Schools, who was present at the training on Wednesday.

Currently, there are armed school resource officers at all three high schools and all four middle schools in the division. There are none stationed full-time at the 11 elementary schools. It’s a topic that is being discussed by school officials.

“I’d love to have a [school resource officer] in every one of our schools,” Millholland said.

Employee of the Year 2018 Recognized at BOS Meeting

Early in 2017, Deputy Travis Mitchell, who is assigned as a School Resource Officer at Frederick County Middle School, and the Director of Bright Futures began exploring the idea of a "Lunch Buddy" program. The goal was to create a mentoring program with elementary students to develop stronger relations between the community and law enforcement, all while providing students with a positive role model. The program requires a Deputy to have lunch with students 1 or 2 times a month. Deputy Mitchell began a trial run in three elementary schools with great success.

At the end of the 2017 school year, the program was expanded to all eleven elementary schools in Frederick County. Deputy Mitchell has recruited and mentored fellow officers as well as officers from Middletown and Stephens City Police Departments. Deputy Mitchell continues to monitor the involvement of officers and has created an on-line tracking system to effectively monitor participation. So far during this school year, over 20 officers have participated in the program with positive results.

It is Deputy Mitchell's proactive approach and leadership that has made this program successful!

Sheriff Millholland and Warren Gosnell accepted two broadcast awards from the VA Associated Press (AP) for Best Documentary for our live drinking labs and DUI presentation on The River 95.3 fm's "Valley Today" program.
